

Regarding the supplementary examinations for entrance examination from December 2022 to February 2023
at Graduate School of Information Science and Technology

In addition to the entrance examination that will be conducted at the date and time stated in the application guides (hereinafter referred to as the “main examination”), the following “supplementary examinations” will be conducted in order to give opportunities to take the examinations for the applicants who could not take the main examination because of the COVID-19.

1. Measures for the applicants who have contracted COVID-19

Supplementary examinations will be made available for those meeting the following conditions:

- 1) those who are within the prescribed period of medical treatment for having tested positive for COVID-19.
- 2) those who have been deemed to have had a close contact with a person with COVID-19 by a health center. *
- 3) those who have been deemed to have had a close contact with a person with COVID-19 by the graduate school. *

At Osaka University, those who have had a close contact with a person with COVID-19 during the period from two days before the onset of the disease to the start of the isolation, and who meet one of the following conditions are, in principle, considered to be a close contact person.

- those who live together with who have contracted COVID-19
 - those who share meals or drinks while conversing with who have contracted COVID-19
 - those who had contact with who have contracted COVID-19 for more than 1 hour in closed space such as boarding house, car, karaoke room, hotel room, etc.
- 4) those who are in bad health condition such as fever (approximate body temperature 37.5 degrees celsius) and have those symptoms suspected to be the new coronavirus infections, and who are approved by the graduate school at the same time.
 - 5) those who live overseas and are not able to enter Japan due to the refusal of landing, etc. to prevent the spread of COVID-19 (See 3 in below); and/or
 - 6) those found to be applicable to take a supplementary examination caused by COVID-19 after consultations by the graduate school.

* Asymptomatic persons who are in 2) or 3) and who have been confirmed negative by self-testing with qualitative antigen test kit approved by the pharmaceutical industry in accordance with the Osaka University's regulations may also apply for supplementary examination.

More details about application procedures for the supplementary examinations will be announced to applicants later in the “Cautions for taking examinations” when the examination admission card is sent.
